Highlights from the Inaugural Year Remake Learning Days Across America

April 12 - May 24, 2019

Remake Learning Days Across America (RLDAA) is a celebration of innovative experiences and opportunities for youth to develop their sense of creativity, perseverance and curiosity. This festival of learning began in 2016 in Southwestern Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and in 2019, the festival took root in seven additional regions with support from national co-hosts Remake Learning, PBS Kids and Digital Promise. The regional festivals are intentionally designed with a focus on equity and inclusion and events are hands-on, STEAM-oriented educational experiences for youth of all ages (pre-K through high school) and their families and caregivers. In order to prepare our youth for a time of unprecedented technological and societal change, we must engage families and give them the opportunity to experience creative, relevant learning together. That's what Remake Learning Days helps us do. With regions joining together across the nation, we are igniting an important conversation about our future.

“

It was fun watching my child learn new things while enjoying the activities. I loved that it was free and close to home.”

- PARENT FROM EASTERN KENTUCKY

“

I really enjoyed the event and spending the time to learn with my daughter.”

- PARENT FROM WEST VIRGINIA

“

“I learned how fun and easy it is to make a video about media. How getting the word out about violence is important.”
